

Reading Well for mental health

Reading Well helps you to understand and manage your health and wellbeing using helpful reading available from public libraries. The scheme is endorsed by health professionals and people with mental health needs.

The books provide helpful information and support for managing common mental health conditions, or dealing with difficult feelings and experiences. Some books also include personal stories from people who are living with or caring for someone with mental health needs.

The books have been recommended by mental health professionals and people with experience of the conditions covered. They have been tried and tested and found helpful.

How does it work?

As part of your treatment, you may have been recommended a book by a health professional. The books are also available for anyone to borrow from the local library.

Where do I find the books?

- Go to your local library where you can borrow the book for free
- If the book is not available, you can reserve it

Joining the library

It is easy and free to join your local library. Library book loans and borrower details are treated as confidential. Some libraries may ask for proof of your name and address.

How can books help?

There is evidence from the National Institute for Health and Care Excellence (NICE) that self-help books can help people to understand and manage common mental health conditions, including depression and anxiety.

Although books can sometimes work on their own, research has shown that self-help approaches often work best alongside support from a health professional. Some of the books have been recommended by health professionals for use as part of treatment. These can be found in the Self-help books to support mental health section of the booklist.

What if the book doesn't help?

If you find the book you are reading is not helping, you should contact your GP or a health professional. You can also visit:
